

Gait Analysis

Gait analysis involves the observation and identification of biomechanical dysfunctions. It is both an art and a science in which the chiropractor analyzes the gait, patterns of movement and general performance of different parts of the body. Muscle imbalances and improper movement patterns can be quickly identified leading to an effective treatment program tailored to the individual.